PREFACE

Since the inception of the Cornell Modern Indonesia Project in 1955, we have been aware of a need to standardize and bring together in published form essential data which, while available, must be searched for in scattered sources which are often difficult of access. Given the regularity with which members of our Project and others have requested information on the composition of particular Indonesian cabinets, we felt that it would be helpful to compile for publication all the information available to us on the composition of cabinets, from 1945 to the present. Such a listing as this should, we feel sure, be a useful reference work for all those concerned with the political development of modern Indonesia. It is our hope to bring out other compilations of basic data in the future.

The cabinet lists are presented here either as originally announced or as they were constituted within a few days of formation. Subsequent changes, insofar as available data gives them, are incorporated in the footnotes. The main body of the text is followed by a list of all the parties represented in cabinets (before the elimination of party affiliations) and an index of people appointed to all cabinets, from 1945 to the present.

Many people have contributed information and assistance in the bringing together of this compilation, but we are particularly indebted to Ratmoko, the late A. K. Pringgodigdo, and Herbert Feith.

Ithaca, New York
June 24, 1965.

19	Minister without Portfolio	Oto Iskandar Dinata

---

1) Established by Government Announcement of August 19, 1945. This first cabinet of the Republic was formed under the executive constitution of 1945. It quickly gave way, however, to an extra-constitutional parliamentary cabinet.

2) At this time political parties had not yet been formed.

3) Sulyodikusumo was appointed Minister of Security ad interim on October 20, 1945; the original appointee (Supriadi, appointed October 6, 1945) never assumed office.

4) Resigned on September 25, 1945; succeeded by Mr. A. A. Maramis.

5) From September 25, 1945, Minister of Finance.

1) Established by Government Announcement of March 12, 1946. Also included in the cabinet list were Samadikun, as Deputy Minister of Internal Affairs, Sjamsu Harja Udaja, as Deputy Minister of Trade and Industry, and Mohammad Sjafei, as Minister of Education, but they did not accept their appointments. By Presidential Decree 1/1946 (June 29, 1946), all governmental power was provisionally transferred to the President. Presidential Decree 2/1946 (October 2, 1946), transferred authority back to the cabinet.

2) Resigned on June 22, 1946.

3) On June 26, 1946, the Ministry of Agriculture and Supply and the Ministry of Trade and Industry were combined to form the Ministry of Prosperity. Darmawan became Minister of Prosperity and Saksono Deputy Minister; Rasad left the cabinet.

1) Established by Presidential Decrees 153/1959 and 154/1959 (July 10 and 13, 1959). This was the first cabinet appointed under the Presidential Constitution of 1945, which was decreed in force on July 5, 1959. Henceforth, Soekarno, as well as being President, is Prime Minister of a Presidential Cabinet.

2) Shortly after this cabinet was formed, all high officials, including members of the cabinet, were compelled by law to drop their party affiliations or to resign from government service. All members of the cabinet opted to resign from their parties; informal connections with the parties nevertheless remained strong.

3) Prijono's office was originally under Yamin, who was initially appointed as Core Minister of Social and Cultural Affairs. Within a few days, however, the new arrangement was instituted.

4) Relieved of his post on July 15, 1959; replaced by Commodore R. Eddy Martadinata on July 18, 1959.

5) Replaced by Sukarno Djojonegoro on December 15, 1959.

6) Discharged in September 1959. Mr. Gunawan was then appointed Acting Attorney General, until, on December 31, 1959, his position was made permanent.

1) Established by Presidential Decree 21/1960 (February 18, 1960). This reshuffle comprised a reorganization of the cabinet rather than a major personnel change. The Junior Minister designation was eliminated in favor of Minister, but the Core Minister title was retained. The Ministers were organized according to fields of work, each of which was placed under the supervisory responsibility of one of the Core Ministers. The category of Ministers ex-officio was dropped.

2) Subandrio became Second Deputy First Minister on December 20, 1960.

3) Djuanda relinquished his post as Core Minister of Finance in July 1960.

4) On March 21, 1961, two new positions replaced that of Core Minister of Education and Culture. Prof. Mr. Iwa Kusumasumantri was appointed Core Minister of Higher Education and Sciences and Prijono Core Minister of Basic Education and Culture.

5) Resigned February 26, 1962; on March 2, 1962, K. H. Saifuddin Zuhri was appointed Core Minister of Religion.

6) Ministers Sudibjo and Sudjono were both given the new title of Minister for Liaison with Organizations of the People on March 28, 1961, after the formation of the National Front.

1) Established by Presidential Decree 94/1962 (March 19, 1962). In this reorganization of the cabinet, each Deputy First Minister was given coordinative responsibility over the Departments and Ministers in his own section. In addition to these Deputy First Ministers in charge of sections of the cabinet, the Chairmen of the Provisional People's Consultative Assembly (MPRS) and the Gotong Rojong Parliament (DPR-GR), the Deputy Chairman of the Supreme Advisory Council (DPA), and the Chairman of the National Planning Council (DEPERNAS) were each given the rank of Deputy First Minister. At the same time a State Leadership body was organized, consisting of the President/Prime Minister, the First Minister, all Deputy First Ministers, and the eight Deputy Chairman of the Provisional People's Consultative Assembly and the Gotong Rojong Parliament (these latter holding, just at sessions of the State Leadership body, the rank of Minister).

2) It was announced on March 19, 1962, that Leimena would be First Deputy First Minister and Subandrio Second Deputy First Minister. On October 25, 1962, Leimena and Subandrio assumed Djuanda's duties collectively while Djuanda was ill.

3) Yamin died on October 17, 1962. On October 24, 1962, Dr. H. Roeslan Abdulgani was appointed Deputy First Minister for Special Affairs and Minister of Information. President Soekarno took over the Chairmanship of the National Planning Council.

1) There is no uniformity in Indonesia as to whether a man is called by his first or last name--if he has more than one. The alphebetization of this index is therefore somewhat arbitrary; each entry is alphebetized according to the name by which a person is most generally referred to, insofar as this is known.

Drs.=Doctorandus (a person who has completed all work for the doctorate except the dissertation); Ds.=Rev.; H.=Hadji; Ir.=Ingenieur (Engineer); K.=Kiaji (honorific title for a noted Islamic leader); Nj.=Mrs.; SH=Sardjana Hukum (a person with a law degree; in 1963 this designation replaced the old title of Mr., Meester in de Rechten).
