Definition of love
has been constantly
evolving,

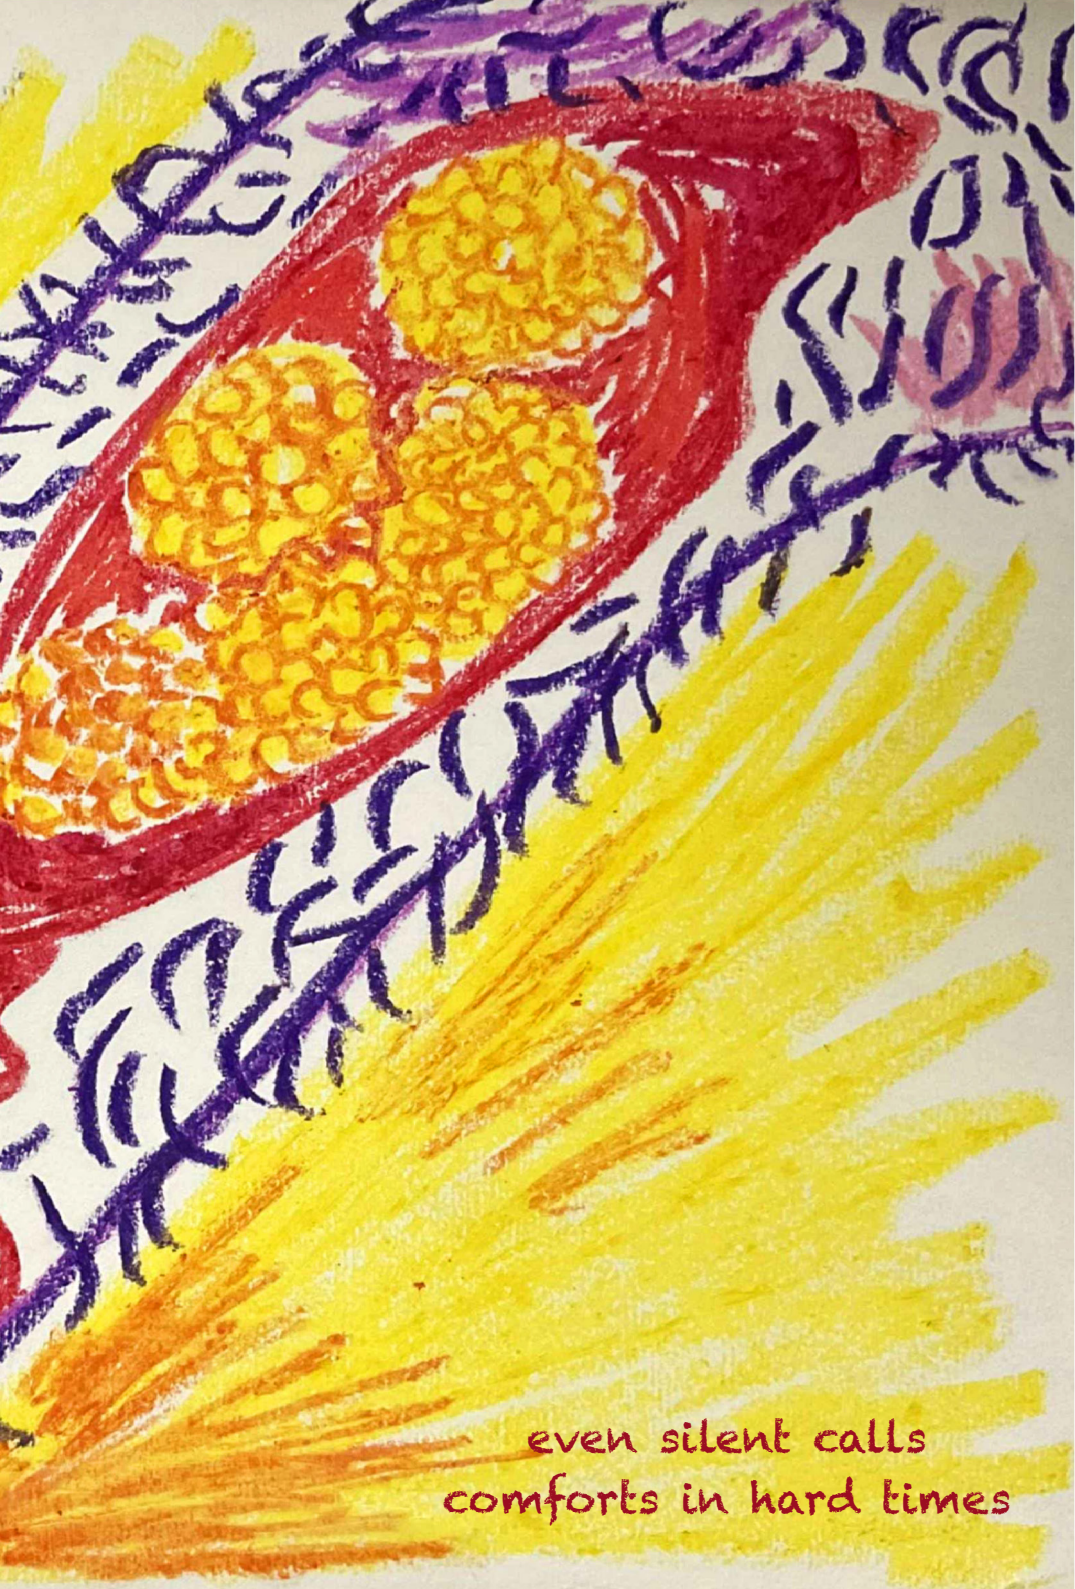

it's passionate,
insane & enthusiastic

For what!
about a year and a half ?

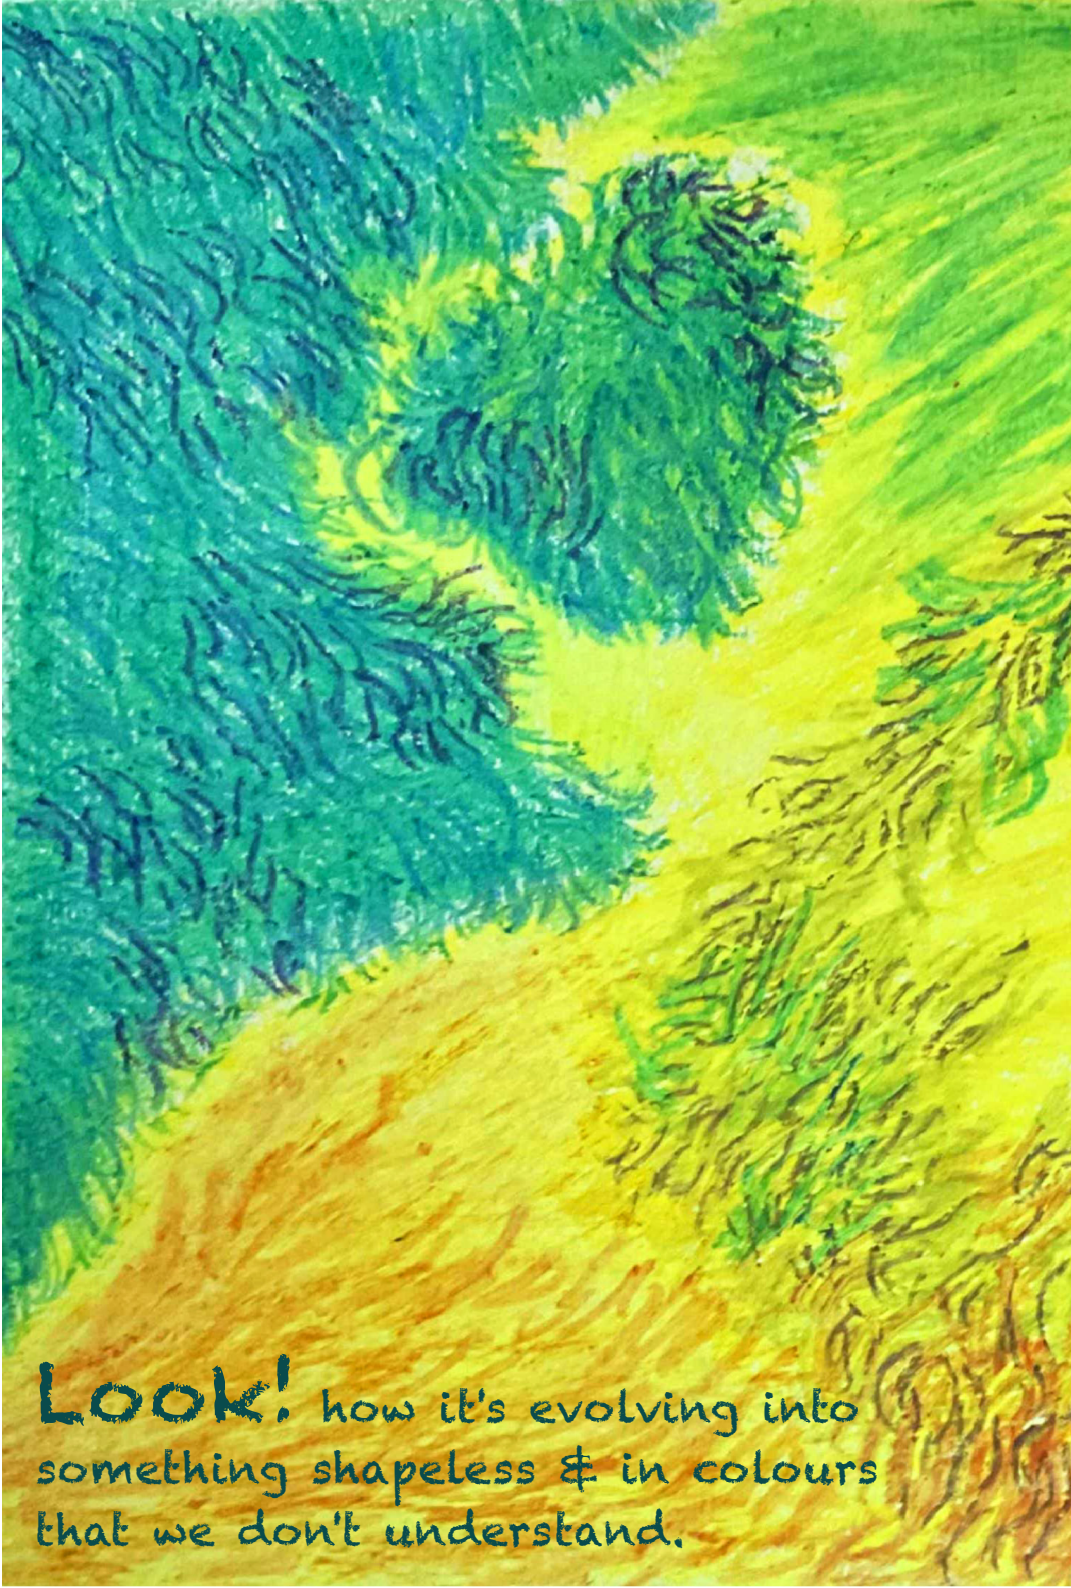

Then it becomes
less intriguing,
but one gets comfortable with silent calls & small talks

even silent calls
comforts in hard times

Love evolves, it blooms into a mature flower but,
what happens to them?
What is still left to grow then?

Bodies might crave
for the magic of
touch, it felt before.

Look! how it's evolving into something shapeless & in colours that we don't understand.

Love isn't just a simple shape with red inside, after all it's doubtful, painful, absurd, surreal, confusing yet beautiful in bizarre ways.

if it evolves, let it
