Definition of love
has been constantly
evolving,

it's passionate,
insane & enthusiastic

For what!
about a year and a half ?

Then it becomes
less intriguing,
but one gets
comfortable with silent calls & small talks

even silent calls
comforts in hard times

Love evolves, it blooms into a mature flower but,

what happens to them?
What is still left to grow then?

Bodies might crave
for the magic of
touch, it felt before.

[Caution]

Look! how it's evolving into something shapeless & in colours that we don't understand.

Love isn't just a simple shape with red inside, after all it's doubtful, painful, absurd, surreal, confusing yet beautiful in bizarre ways.

if it evolves, let it
